Title of initiative	Promoting Clean Elections 2021: “Clean Election” Seminars
Keywords of initiative	Promoting clean elections
Short summary of initiative (please indicate the start date/duration if relevant)	Year 2021 marked the elections for the 7 th Legislative Assembly of the Macao SAR. The safeguarding of the integrity of the Legislative Assembly Elections was the priority task of the CCAC in that year. Therefore, in relation to dissemination and education, the CCAC focused on launching clean elections dissemination activities and strived to take a pre-emptive opportunity to disseminate the message on the importance of clean elections to the general public so that they could acquire the knowledge of the Electoral Law of the Legislative Assembly and avoid any inadvertent breach of the law. Meanwhile, the CCAC also continued its effort in rolling out clean election dissemination activities for primary and secondary school students, as well as for the public and private sectors so as to foster a sense of integrity and honesty in all the residents of the Macao SAR.
Detailed description of initiative	As the 7th Legislative Assembly Elections of the Macao SAR took place in September 2021, the CCAC assigned its staff to some schools, civic associations/institutions upon their invitations as usual. Seminars for students, members and staff of those schools, civic associations/institutions about clean elections were held. By explaining the Electoral Law of the Legislative Assembly through common electoral bribery cases, the CCAC reminded “first-time voters” and residents to stay vigilant against the traps of electoral bribery, value their votes and avoid breaching the law inadvertently.

	Between March and August 2021, a total of nine clean election seminars were held, with 649 participants.
Lessons learned in implementing the initiative	One of the main prevention tools used by the CCAC not only in the context of elections but also in that of the prevention of corruption in general, is the organisation of seminars/workshops to disseminate legal regimes and discuss the topics presented with the participants, using practical examples. It was also in this context, and in that of the prevention of electoral corruption that the referred seminars took place. The CCAC always receives positive feedback from these types of initiatives on the prevention of corruption.
Challenges encountered in implementing the initiative	The constant need to organise and adapt to these types of seminars in the ongoing circumstance of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Meanwhile, the CCAC also continued its effort in rolling out clean election dissemination activities for primary and secondary school students, as well as for the public and private sectors so as to foster a sense of integrity and honesty in all the residents of the Macao SAR..
Detailed description of initiative	The CCAC disseminated “clean election” messages through different channels in order to appeal to the general public to join hands in the safeguarding of the fairness, justice and integrity of the Legislative Assembly Elections in an all-embracing way, including: 1. Thematic webpage: Launch the “Webpage on Clean Elections 2021” in order to facilitate the general public to obtain detailed information related to clean elections in a more suitable and comprehensive way.

2. Promotion carried out by volunteers: Arrange volunteers to hand out publicity leaflets about elections and affix dissemination posters on the streets in relatively crowded districts of Macao, including the central district, the Dynasty Plaza district, the Iao Hon district, the Areia Preta district and the Horta e Costa district some days prior to the polling day to appeal to the general public to support clean elections and avoid traps of electoral bribery.
3. Infographics: In order to tie in with the general public's habit to obtain information through the new media, the CCAC produced video clips and animation videos on cases based on the blueprints of common illegal practices in elections and shared them through its WeChat public account. Infographics were created to persistently spread "clean election" messages through platforms of the social network (e.g. WeChat, etc.) to facilitate the general public to acquire the knowledge and abide by the law.
4. Media advertisements: the CCAC placed comic strips or electoral information on the theme of clean elections in newspaper advertisements and columns and utilised electronic media, including the Chinese and Portuguese radios and televisions, to broadcast multi-faceted "clean election" advertisements, radio dramas and video clips in different slots every day with a view to widely disseminating "clean election" information.
5. Internet advertisements: The CCAC uploaded "clean election" messages on frequently-visited websites, mobile applications and platforms of the social network of the Macao SAR with a view to facilitating more citizens, young generations in particular, to receive "clean election" messages.
6. Advertisements in public places: Lamppost buntings, railing banners, footbridge banners, MUPI, large outdoor signboards, large billboards and advertising light boxes in public car parks.
7. Advertisements at the premises of public departments and enterprises: The Municipal Affairs Bureau, the Sports Bureau, the Public Security Police Force, the Public Administration and Civil Service Bureau and the CTM lent out advertising areas and the windows of the external walls of their premises where large advertisements about clean elections were placed. Moreover, "clean election" advertisements were broadcasted at 14 public departments (the Identification Services Bureau, the Education and Youth Development Bureau and the Social Welfare Bureau, etc.), at the 50 reception areas of their subordinated service centres, as well as all 36 branches of the Bank of China (Macao Branch) to facilitate the general public to receive "clean election" messages in a light-hearted manner while using government services or handling their banking businesses.
8. Advertisements on bus: Placed advertisements on bus bodies and inside the bus compartments and broadcasted "clean election" advertisements and video clips on screens inside the bus compartments.
9. TV programme "Enquiry and Reply": Widely promote the relevant regulations of the Electoral Law of the Legislative Assembly and the notes to notices for the candidate lists on TDM's TV programme "Enquiry and Reply", with a view to facilitating the voters and the candidate lists to acquire the knowledge of and

	abide by the law in order to safeguard the fairness, justice and integrity of the elections with concerted efforts. 10. Production of publications and dissemination materials: Printed posters and dissemination leaflets about “Clean Elections 2021”, produced a variety of dissemination materials to be handed out to the general public in different occasions to promote “clean election” messages and anti-corruption hotlines.
Lessons learned in implementing the initiative	The final assessment of the impact of the set of initiatives undertaken by the CCAC to promote free elections in the Macao SAR in 2021 was very positive on the part of all those involved, in particular the general public that provided a positive feedbacks on their commitment and involvement in all the initiatives, as well as on the message that has been disseminated in these initiatives through their active participation.
